

DIXON TO RALLY BEHIND UNCLE SAM WEDNESDAY

ENTIRE CITIZENSHIP OF THE TOWNSHIP EXPECTED TO MARCH.

FARMER SECTION ARRANGED FOR

Committee Named to Interest Them
Assembling Places Are Assigned.

The great rally of every man, woman and child in Dixon behind the government in its prosecution of the war to make democracy safe to the world Wednesday evening will be the greatest meeting of its kind in the history of Dixon, following plans which have been completed by the committees in charge. Every citizen of Dixon, who is a real American and who is able to march, should be in the big parade at 7 o'clock, should attend one of the meetings to be held at the opera house and other nearby halls, and should subscribe for a Liberty Bond and see that every friend and acquaintance buys one. No invitations will be sent out for the parade—it is an all-American affair and is wide open to everyone.

Nearly farmers are also asked to join in the march. A committee headed by A. H. Bosworth, who will be assisted by J. L. Hartwell, Joseph Prindaville and Luther Burkett, has been appointed to interest the farmers and to secure their presence as a farmers' division in the parade. The recent arraignment of the farmers as a class for failure to properly support the government will doubtless result in many from this vicinity taking this opportunity to refute the charges which have been made against them.

All Should Carry Banners. Every institution represented in the parade is expected to have a banner showing its identity, and everyone who is not certain as to the division in which he should march is asked to call any one of the committees, who will give the necessary information.

Assembling Places. The various divisions are being assigned, two being named this morning.

Clerks, including those in stores, offices, bookkeepers and stenographers, will meet on Ottawa avenue, between First and Second streets.

Business men in every line of mercantile endeavor will meet on Ottawa avenue, between Second and Third streets.

AGED MAN TOOK LONG WALK TODAY

Jeremiah Preston, aged 95 years, who lives south of the city limits on Peoria avenue, astonished all of his friends by walking down town and back again this morning. He received the hearty congratulations of all who knew him on his most successful "march."

DAN WOLFE NOW A SUB CHASER

Dan Wolfe notifies friends that he has passed his examination for second class seaman and has been selected as one of the thirty-five men to go from Chicago to the Atlantic coast to man submarine chasers.

Before leaving, the Dixon boy won the 145-pound championship and belt of the wrestlers at the Grant Park naval school.

SISTER ILL IN CHICAGO

Mrs. C. D. Anderson was called to Chicago by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Frank Lyndon, wife of Dr. Lyndon.

FRIENDSHIP LODGE SPECIAL

A special meeting of Friendship Lodge No. 7, A. F. & A. M., for work in the Masters degree, will be held at 7 o'clock this evening.

Noted Farm Paper Editor Thinks Farmers Will Not Fail in Duty

(By W. D. Hoard, Editor Hoard's Dairyman.)

Our liberty has been attacked on sea and on land, our freedom and institutions have been threatened, and our nation placed in jeopardy. Our soldiers are called to arms, our good women are devoting themselves to Red Cross work, and civilians everywhere are adding the government in its multiplicity of duties. War means sacrifice to every able-bodied citizen, including men, women and children. It means unselfish and unremitting service.

The tremendous preparation which the government is making to bring this awful war to a successful close means the expenditure of billions of dollars. This money must come from our citizens and from every class, including the laborer, shopkeeper, manufacturer, banker, financier and farmer. It borders upon treason for anyone who can spare a dollar to withhold it from his country's call.

There are millions of dollars deposited in the banks by the farmers of this country which are earning them little or nothing. The Liberty Loan bonds offered by our government bear 4 per cent interest. If

CUT TO PIECES UNDER N. W. TRAIN

Arthur Bigwood, a Clinton, Iowa, youth, was ground to pieces under the wheels of a westbound Northwestern freight train near the depot in Sterling at 5:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when, while stealing a ride from Sterling to his home, he fell from his position on the bumpers between two cars. His body was cut to pieces.

MANY MEETINGS TO CLOSE BOND DRIVE

SEVEN GATHERINGS WILL BE HELD TONIGHT AND TUESDAY EVE.

DIXON SPEAKERS WILL GIVE TALKS

A large number of meetings throughout the county have been arranged to close the Liberty Bond campaign this week, tonight and tomorrow evening's being especially busy. Public meetings will be held in the Palmyra and Harmon town halls this evening, with E. E. Winger, Rev. E. C. Lumsden and J. E. Erwin speaking at Palmyra and John Armstrong, Harry Edwards and Harry Warner at Harmon.

Five meetings will be held tomorrow evening, as follows:

Sublette—Speakers, Harry Edwards, John B. Crabtree and Harry Warner.

Lee—Speakers, O. S. Storm, John H. Byers and others.

East Grove—Murphy's Social—Speakers, J. P. Devine, M. J. Cannon.

Walton—Speakers, H. S. Dixon, Edward Vaile, G. W. Gehant, Albert Borst.

Husking Bee, Keigwin's, Hamilton Township—Speakers, L. W. Miller, E. H. Brewster.

Spoke at Theaters. W. B. Brinton spoke briefly for the Liberty Bonds at the Family Theater and Albert Borst, superintendent of the milk factory, gave a short appeal at the Princess Saturday evening.

Eldena Thursday Eve. South Dixon people will hear the Liberty Loan thoroughly discussed by State's Attorney Edwards, Attorney Harry Warner and John H. Byers at Glessner's hall in Eldena Thursday evening.

DIXON SOLDIERS HOME.

Corporals Robert Warner, John Rosbrook, Ferguson and Sergeant Dutcher of Company M, 342nd Infantry, Camp Grant, drove to Dixon Sunday in Mr. Warner's car and visited their relatives.

Abe Martin--

The very newest thing in four-flushers is the feller that's goin' to try to do without a car till his war's won. Th' trouble with a educated feller is that he allus wants to begin at the top.

D. U. H. S. WINS IN FOOT-BALL WITH CLINTON

DIXON ELEVEN PLAYED STAR GAME HERE ON SAT-URDAY.

26 TO 0 RESULT OF GREAT GAME

Local Athletes Stages Interesting and Consistent Game.

The Dixon Union High School football team won a signal victory Saturday afternoon at the Country Club grounds when it defeated Clinton High School. Score, 26 to 0. The local gridiron stars were in splendid form and played a fast, steady and consistent game. There were few spectacular plays, nor did Dixon profit greatly by loose playing on the part of their opponents. Dixon beat Clinton for the first time in eight years, and did it by playing real football. Saturday's game was pronounced the best exhibition seen on a local field by either a home or visiting team for some time past.

The lineup. Dixon—Center, Hutchinson; guards, Gardner, Altman; tackle, Flemming, Whitcombe; end, Hess.

MANY MINERS GO BACK TO WORK IN ILLINOIS TODAY

FRANKLIN COUNTY MINERS
EXPECTED TO BE ON JOBS
TOMORROW.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) Springfield, Ill., Oct. 22.—Coal miners went back to work today with the exception of those in Franklin county, after a strike last week in an attempt to force an increase in wages.

In Franklin county, where there are nineteen mines, the men are holding meetings today and probably, it was reported, will be on the job tomorrow morning.

Last week's strike started when increases agreed on between miners and operators, but said by the operators to be dependent upon permission of the Fuel Administration to raise coal prices, did not become effective beginning with the second October payday.

Doctor Garfield, the coal administrator, now has data before him to serve as a basis for deciding whether an increase in prices is advisable.

GOODWIN TAKEN TO PEN SUNDAY

Matt Goodwin, the negro who Friday received his sentence to serve from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary for assault upon Chief VanBibber with intent to kill, was taken to the Joliet institution Sunday by Sheriff Phillips, Deputy S. O. Agraves and State's Attorney Harry Edwards.

NEW DANCE CLUB WILL GIVE PARTY

The Beaver Hunting and Fishing Club has issued invitations to its first grand dancing party at Rosbrook's hall Thursday evening, which it is expected will be one of the big dances of the season. The Marquette Eight will furnish the music for the dancers and will play a short concert before the program.

ADDRESSED IMPLEMENT MEN

W. B. Brinton has returned from Chicago where he attended a meeting at the National Implement Association. On Wednesday evening Mr. Brinton gave a talk at a dinner in the Auditorium Annex on the agricultural conditions of the country as related to implement manufacturers and dealers.

VISIT PARENTS.

Miss Mary Rosbrook, who is in training to become a nurse at the Sterling hospital, was home Sunday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tryon Rosbrook, of the Bend, and her brother, Corporal John Rosbrook, who was also home for a visit. Their father, Tryon Rosbrook, is incapacitated from an injury to his leg.

LICENSED TO WED.

A marriage license was issued Saturday afternoon to Horace Boone of Amboy and Miss Thelma Bartle of Dodgeville, Iowa.

POSITION IN DANVILLE.

Frank Love went to Danville yesterday to accept a position in a big laundry.

RETURN TO SOUTH DAKOTA.

William J. Lawrence D. and Earl, the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hardin, who have been, with their families, visiting their parents here, left Friday for their homes in Humboldt, S. D. They are making the trip by auto.

ASK BOYS TO WORK TO INCREASE FOOD SUPPLY OF NATION

GOVERNMENT WILL ENLIST U. S.
BOYS' WORKING RE-SERVE.

WILL ASK FOR VOLUNTEERS SOON

Federal State Director Has Been Appointed—Will Appoint County Directors.

Boys between the ages of 16 and 20, in Dixon and Lee county, will be interested in a new department that has been formed under the Department of Labor of the government at Washington, which will give the lads of America who are too young to go to war a chance to be a big help to Uncle Sam in winning this war against the Kaiser.

Barth D. Butler of Chicago has been appointed Federal State Director and he is at work organizing the boys of this state for the purpose of getting them to volunteer to work on the farms of Illinois next year, to take the places of the many thousands of farm hands who have been called to war. His office is co-operating with the Illinois State Council of Defense, and soon a man will be appointed in Lee County and every other county in the state who will develop the local organizations.

Every boy who enlists in this U. S. Boys' Working Reserve for farm work will take an oath of allegiance to the United States and will be presented with a badge which will mark him as a member of that honorable organization.

The government wants boys who are not otherwise engaged in productive service to enlist in this army which will work for increased food supplies for the army and navy and the American people and our allies. The two million men who have or will soon be called into the service of the nation to bear arms against the enemy will create a big drain upon the labor resources of the farming industry and other industries, and the aid of every able-bodied young man will be needed on the farms of the country.

We believe that the boys of Lee County will be glad to do their bit for the flag by working on Lee County farms next summer. The boys from the towns and villages can forego their summer's pleasures if necessary to do a man's work and make it possible for their older brothers, the fighters of the nation, to continue their battle against autocracy.

FREE RINK TICKETS WITH LIBERTY BONDS

M. E. RICE OFFERS PREMIUM
AT CAMPAIGN THIS EVENING.

To promote the subscription of Liberty Bonds in Dixon, M. E. Rice has offered free admission to all young people between the ages of 17 and 30 at his rink this evening. It being his desire that the kiddies and older people give way tonight to the younger ones. A committee from the banks will be on hand at the rink and for every $50 bond subscribed for at the rink tonight, Mr. Rice will give a free season admission ticket for the rest of the winter, conditional upon the prompt payment of the installments on the bonds as they fall due.

38 MILLIONS FIGHT IN WAR

(Associated Press Leased Wire) Washington, Oct. 22.—At least 38,000,000 are bearing arms in the war, 27,500,000 on the side of the world allies and 10,500,000 on the side of the central powers, according to the latest war department information from published reports from various countries. These figures do not figure naval personal strength, which should raise the total several million.

REV. JOHN SAGE ELECTED BISHOP

Dixon friends will be pleased to learn that Rev. John C. Sage, for many years rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church in this city, which has been elected Bishop of Salina, which takes in the territory of the western half of Kansas, at a special session of the House of Bishops in Chicago. It is not known whether Mr. Sage will accept the post.

ALL HANDS LOST ON JAP STEAMER

(Associated Press Leased Wire) Tokyo, Japan, Oct. 22.—The Japanese steamship Hitachi Maru, 6550 tons, is missing and is believed to have struck a mine, with the loss of all on board.

FINE TO RED CROSS.

Dr. L. R. Evans today paid Henry Kenneth, chairman of the Elks' Aultham committee, 26 cents fine assessed for his delay in sending a photograph to the committee, and the money was at once turned over to the Lee County Red Cross.

NEW FOUR PER CENT BONDS.

The City National Bank has a sample of the new four per cent Liberty Loan Bonds on display.

BUY 4 THROW YOUR HAT IN THE RING LIBERTY BOND

(By W. B. Brinton.) We are at war with a foreign foe. Our Government has conscripted several million of the young men of this nation and will send them to the front. It takes money to equip, clothe and feed them.

The Government asks you and me to loan them the money. They promise to pay us four per cent. The bond they give us is not subject to taxation.

The Congress who has the power to conscript the young men of the country and send them to the front has the right to conscript the money to clothe, feed and arm them. Rather than do this, the Government offers to borrow the money from the people and pay them interest every six months.

A large amount has been assigned to Dixon Township. We must

NO ARGUMENT AGAINST

(By E. H. Brewster.) I am frequently asked by my clients and others about the new Liberty bond now being offered for sale. I have a sort of stock reply about as follows:

There is every reason why all, who can, should buy Liberty Loan 4% bonds. Absolutely no reason exists why any person should not buy except those unable to do so. Of his ability to buy bonds each person is the best and should be the sole judge. The only question for a person to decide is: Can I spare the money for this purpose and, if so, how much? If he decides he can, then he should go at once to his banker who will "do the rest."

These bonds are of denominations from $50 up, with interest at 4% semi-annually, are not subject to tax except in the case of persons with large incomes and can be paid for on the installment plan. Never before to my knowledge, could so desirable an investment be made upon such liberal terms to the investor. It is better than a 5% investment at the present rate of taxation and, with the resources of the entire country behind it, is an absolutely safe one.

Furthermore, our country is engaged in a war such as the world has never seen and beside which our former wars shrink to almost child's play. Whether or not we were justified in entering this war, or who is responsible for our doing so, is not the question now. We are in it and must see it through to a successful termination. What would be thought of a man who, before he would make the least effort to save himself and family from drowning, would insist on first having the question of who

BOB FITZSIMMONS LOSES LAST FIGHT

FORMER CHAMPIONSHIP HEAVY-WEIGHT OF THE WORLD IS DEAD.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) Chicago, Oct. 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, died at a hospital here early today after an illness of five days, of pneumonia.

The former champion was taken ill last Tuesday while appearing at a vaudeville theatre and his ailment at first was thought to be ptomaine poisoning.

C. E. SNIVELY DIED SUDDENLY

(Associated Press Leased Wire) Springfield, Oct. 22.—C. E. Snively, former member of the garden board and clerk of Illinois supreme court, died suddenly of heart trouble at his home here early today at the age of 72 years. Mr. Snively was a veteran newspaper man and for many years had been editor of the Canton Register.

TO SURGEONS' CONGRESS

Dr. Murphy went to Chicago this morning where he will attend the Clinical Congress of Surgeons, which is in session all this week.

U. S. W. V. TO MARCH

The United Spanish War Veterans will meet at the G. A. R. hall at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday evening to march in the Liberty bond rally and parade.

Reason for Self-Confidence.

Self-confidence is really based primarily upon one's consciousness of his own powers or of his deficiencies. A clear understanding of this fact will help to simplify the problem. It is perfectly clear, for instance, that the man who is poorly educated, who has neglected his opportunities, who is undisciplined, who lacks self-restraint, who is truly incompetent in practically all directions, and who is at the same time conscious of his deficiencies, cannot expect to enjoy any degree of self-confidence.—Physical Culture.

NAME OMITTED.

The name of Henry Kenneth was unintentionally omitted from the list of the "shock" squadron, which will make the final roundup in the Liberty Loan campaign here.

RUSSIAN FLEET ESCAPES GERMANS

Russian Fleet Must Battle If They Want Entrance to Gulf of Finland.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

In co-operation with the French on his left, British Marshal Haig launched a new blow along a narrow front on the German lines northeast of Ypres this morning.

The allied infantry moved forward in the neighborhood of the Ypres-Staden railway and on the outskirts of Houtholst wood on the extreme northern edge of the front in Flanders. The French advance was along a width of about three-fifths of a mile. Both groups of attacking troops scored early successes.

British naval airmen who raided bases in Belgium and conducted scouting operations over the enemies' positions, report that they forced down six German airplanes.

Russ Fleet Escapes.

The Russian warships have made their escape without losses from Moon Sound and are now in position protecting the northern entrance to the sound. This probably will compel the Germans to give battle if they wish to enter the Gulf of Finland.

MOOSEHEART LEGION WILL MEET IN DIXON

JANUARY FROLIC GIVEN TO THIS CITY AT STERLING
MEET.

DIXON MEN WERE ELECTED OFFICERS

The January "frolic" of the Blackhawk Legion of Mooseheart will be held in Dixon. At the meeting of the Legion in Sterling Saturday night, which was a great affair, Dixon won the vote for the next meeting place, and now the local members will start their campaign for 160 new members—necessary for the successful meeting of the Legion here.

The gathering at Sterling was certainly a happy affair. With a big parade in the evening, in which the Mooseheart boys' drum and bugle corps, the Dixon and Sterling Moose bands furnished music, a hundred Legionnaires, Moose and candidates marched, a big 30x60 American flag, carried by twenty Moose being a feature, the evening's festivities started. From then until 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning the gay men were made happy with a continuous vaudeville performance, interrupted only by the bounteous banquet at 12:30 o'clock. The banquet was served by the Sterling Lady Moose Legion.

The following officers were elected at the meeting:

North Moose—Bert Preston, Sterling.
South Moose—Carl Wagner, Dixon.
West Moose—W. G. Kent, Dixon.
Herder—C. L. VandeMark, Sterling.

Dr. Worsley Expects to be Returned From Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C.

Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., Oct. 16.—Thinking that possibly your readers might care to hear about our camp here at Greenville, I will describe same as best I can.

Our camp is located just in the edge of the Blue Ridge mountains and consists of about 4,000 acres of land, most of which was timbered at the time the camp was located here. Now they have cleared off most of the timber and are making roads around to all parts of the tract.

At the time I arrived here many of the buildings were still unfinished but most of them are completed now. There are about two hundred and twenty large mess halls, each one capable of seating about two hundred men, the base hospital, with a capacity of 4,000 beds, in-patient wards, various headquarters buildings, and tents capable of housing 30,000 men, which is the number we will have here by the end of this present week.

We are well fed and I have heard no complaints from any one on this score. Of course I eat at the "Officers' Mess," but I think the men get practically the same rations and, with the exception of the fact that each private has to take care of his own dishes, he is cared for in the same way so far as food is concerned as we of the officers' staff.

We all live in tents, or at least most of us do, as only the nurses and the medical and dental offices connected with the base hospital are

With best regards to all the Dixon friends, I remain, Yours truly,

1st Lieut. 4th, 5th and 6th Tr. Bn.,
55th Depot Brigade.

AMERICAN WOMEN WILL BUY BONDS

By MARTHA KIMBALL WOOD, Member Women's Liberty Loan Committee.

Never before in history, save in the mind of Plato in his ideal republic, has the economic or financial aid of women been sought by the government of a nation. Since Susan B. Anthony founded the reeve of equal suffrage, women the world over have been clamoring for their rights. And now that the government asks our aid, in no way will women gain suffrage more surely than through responding to every call the government makes upon them.

Washington has asked us to conserve foodstuffs and other necessities of life; to support the Red Cross; to register women for war service; to protect the interest of women and children in industry; to relieve the suffering of our allies in this great enterprise; yet at the same time to curtail in no way our aid to home charities. These requests prove that while in some states suffrage is withheld, the government feels that we are entirely capable of doing any work asked of us; and now the supreme test, from a man's standpoint, is placed in our hands to be of financial aid to the government of the United States.

These thoughts have been in the mind of every thinking woman and are reasons why every woman should support the Liberty Loan. However, I do not believe them to be the supreme reasons why they will support the loan.

Every real woman is potentially a mother. In our new National Army there are 687,000 "first call" men; and this means nearly a million mothers anxious that the war should cease before their sons are called upon to face the sacrifice required of the boys of other nations. And there are countless other mothers, without sons to offer, but knowing that unless our troops are successful and the war speedily closed, their daughters may have to bear the shame under which the girls of invaded Europe are crushed. Will these mothers feel that they can refuse to support this second Liberty Loan?

No real woman with mother instinct, who has read of the flower of European youth—clean and sweet and strong—enduring the filth of the trenches; facing malignant ruthlessness of the enemy's onslaughts; returning maimed, blinded, and eaten with disease—no woman picturing even faintly the sickening horror which brutal lust has wrought upon the girls of France, Belgium and Serbia—will hesitate for one moment in doing anything to cut short the duration of this war. For the protection of their sons and daughters, American women will buy Liberty bonds.

MUST OVERWHELM THE KAISER

By RUTH LAW, Famous Aviator.

The government has asked us for another great Liberty Loan. Thousands of American men and women are wondering what they can do to help bring peace to the distracted world. The word war is beginning to bring horror to our hearts, as it has brought horror to the hearts of men and women of Europe ever since 1914. Our boys are now in that dreadful cauldron of death and suffering, the battlefield of France. Many a mother has sent her only son away to the land she has never seen to fight for the cause of Liberty and Freedom. Other mothers have given several sons for this noble cause.

This is the moment of opportunity. Grasp it before it is too late. Subscribe to the new Liberty Loan, the loan that is to help bring back our sons, brothers and fathers from a war that was forced upon us by the German Kaiser. We must show the enemy of democracy and liberty that every last American is standing back of Uncle Sam with every penny that we possess. Let us show the Germans that the great masses of the American people are individually working for peace by subscribing to the new Liberty Loan.

Particularly, men and women of small means, this is your opportunity to do your bit for Uncle Sam. We will overwhelm the Kaiser's forces with money, men and airplanes and drive them forever from the fields of battle.

BUY YOUR BOND FOR LIBERTY TODAY.

BRYAN BOOSTS LIBERTY SALE.

Every American's paramount duty is to stand behind the president and congress and support "anything and everything our government does in this war." William Jennings Bryan told members of the New York Advertising club.

"The furnishing of money," said Mr. Bryan, "is one of the most important ways of supporting the government. Before we entered the war it was a matter of opinion and discussion, but it is no longer a question of opinion. It is time for action now."

He declared he would make no complaint against high taxes as long as there are men giving their lives for the country.

"I shall not put a dollar in my pocket," he said, "until I have seen that the man nor proper." He said.

THE TIME HAS COME TO CONQUER OR SUBMIT. FOR US THERE IS BUT ONE CHOICE WE HAVE MADE IT. BUY A BOND OF THE 2ND LIBERTY LOAN AND HELP WIN THE WAR. A LIBERTY BOND IS A UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BOND.

are willing to be charitable and believe they neglected this duty through procrastination, or lack of funds, or for some other reason more or less unavoidable.

At any rate, the fact remains that they didn't subscribe to the first Liberty Loan, and since then, no doubt, their conscience hasn't been resting well at night. Now they have an opportunity to ease that troubled conscience. There's a second Liberty Loan on now, offering a better investment than even the first one offered, and the advice of this publication to farmers everywhere is this:

If you failed to invest in the first loan, go straight to your banker, without a moment's delay, and invest in loan number two. Plunge into it up to your eyeballs, for you've got to atone, remember, for what you failed to do last May and June.

If you did invest in the first loan, then hold on to your interim certificates and later exchange them for the second issue bonds, which will pay a higher rate of interest. No charge will be made for this exchange, and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo will presently name the date upon which the exchange may be made.

But don't hesitate to buy a bond of this second issue simply because you bought one or more of the first. You cannot own too many of these bonds. They're the safest investment on earth, and one of the most profitable. So long as the United States government endures, they cannot depreciate in value.

Then, too, of course, there is a higher reason why every farmer should have a Liberty bond in his home. Even though they paid no interest whatever, they should be in every farmhouse in America. The ownership of a Liberty bond is sufficient proof that the farmer has emerged triumphantly from an acid test of his patriotism. Liberty bond owners need never protest that they are true-blue Americans. Their bonds prove they are.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD BUY A BOND

By EDWARD BOK, Editor, Ladies' Home Journal.

Every woman who can should buy one of the new Bonds because

First: It is the best investment on the face of the earth today. There could be no better.

Second: As every cent of the money raised by these Bonds is spent in this country, a woman helps to keep business going, and that means her income.

Third: The buying of a Bond makes every woman do her part in winning the war, for war cannot be conducted without money. The Government must have money, and the amount she loans to it helps to keep our boys in France fed and clothed. A woman when she buys one of these Bonds is a real patriot of her country, as well as a careful investor of her money.

Fourth: Bonds must sell, for if they don't, the necessary money must be raised by such heavy taxation as to cripple every industry in the land, and the war would not be able to provide the soldiers with the bare necessities of life. Everything would go into taxation. Hence, come these Bonds as true saviors of the poor.

DO WITHOUT—AND DO

By WILBUR D. NESBIT.

About many millions of people in the United States have been thinking about the past three years.

They have thought that we were a great nation, that we could be lapped in the face and kicked for good measure.

They have thought that we were so afraid of trouble that we would stand for anything rather than tackle it if it came our way.

Today they are changing their minds.

we are giving the world a demonstration of what the underlying principles of this country are.

We are showing the world that we have never had the slightest idea of spelling "American" with any other than a capital A.

Doing this costs money.

It is easy enough to wave a flag and cheer the soldiers; it is easy enough to create patriotic things and praise the names of Washington and Lincoln.

But the acid test of war is sifting citizenship. It is making us realize that we cannot have national strength without something to back it up.

That's why the second Liberty loan is announced.

We might as well get used to supporting Liberty loans.

You can't "do your bit" by wearing a button for one bond. We've got to pay for that Americanism of which we have been so proud, if we expect to keep on being proud of it.

It means sacrifices. It means each of us has got to do the biggest things he can do for his country.

If a million, or two million, men can stand behind us and the hell that was made of Belgium and northern France, then we can stand back of those men and pay for the guns and ammunition and clothing and food they have to have.

Suppose you did buy one Liberty bond. Suppose you bought a thousand dollars' worth, or a hundred thousand dollars' worth.

Buy another. Double your investment.

Can't afford it?

We have to afford it—this time, and the next, and the next, and every time until the war is won.

We'll have to do without something. If that is the only way we can do something for our country.

If you have to do without a dress, or an overcoat, to buy a Liberty bond, do without.

You'd rather have peace, and a bond paying you 4 per cent, than a dress or an overcoat, and war costing you your home, and your sons, and your brothers, wouldn't you?

If we can't put this second Liberty loan over except by doing without something, then let's do without.

For, if we can't make a loan to Liberty, then one of these days we will see Liberty in pawn.

WHO GETS THE MONEY?

When an Englishman, or a Frenchman, or a subject of any of the other allied countries, buys a government bond, he knows that a large portion of his money will be spent outside his native land. When an American buys a government bond, he knows that every cent of his money will be spent right here at home.

It will be spent on the navy, the army, in cantonments, in shipyards—in a myriad ways and places—but none of it will be spent abroad.

Thus, when a man buys a $100 Liberty bond of the second issue—or a $1,000 bond, or a bond of any other denomination that may suit his pocketbook—he may possess the comfortable feeling that he is contributing directly to the prosperity of America.

Nearly $80,000,000 is now being spent in navy yards, training stations, submarines and aviation bases, warehouses for supplies and munitions, shops, foundries, shipways, drydocks.

The shipyards of America are now taxed to the utmost in building destroyers and submarine chasers, and contracts have been made for 32,000-ton battleships, five battle cruisers of 35,000 tons each, six scout cruisers and many auxiliary craft.

The navy has patrolled the American coast since the day we declared war on Germany; and for this purpose we have requisitioned yachts, fishing vessels, motorboats and other minor craft.

These are but a few of the ways in which the Liberty bondholders' money

Clinton—Center, Rogers; guard, Peterson, McCall; tackle, Wolfe, Jowett; end, Christians, Wills; quarterback, Williams; fullback, Saxon; halfback, Van Epps; Smiley.

The officials were: Referee, Clark of Rock Island; umpire, Knight of Clinton; head line man, Merritt Lord of Dixon; timekeeper, Prof. H. H. Hagen. Twelve-minute quarters were played. Clinton asked for ten-minute quarters and Captain Whitcombe of the Dixon eleven wanted fifteen-minute periods, evidently confident even before the game that his men could run up a good score on the lads from the river town if given plenty of time. The officials split the difference on the time is spent; but they are enough to answer the question which heads this editorial. And the answer to that question is:

"We get the money, of course."

LIBERTY BONDS AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

The sale of the second Liberty loan bond issue at this time has been hailed in many quarters as being particularly timely. This applies especially to people who are anxious to make Christmas gifts of unusual value, because they will be able, by making small payments from time to time, to acquire Liberty bonds before the arrival of the holiday season.

Brokers in New York are calling the attention of their clients to this opportunity. Many of their customers annually buy stocks or bonds for relatives, and this year all will be urged to buy Liberty bonds of the later issue. By subscribing now they will be adding the government to make a quick and splendid success of the loan. Most banks are willing to receive small deposits weekly in order to enable buyers of the bonds to pay for them in full by Christmas.

NEW LIBERTY LOAN 4 PER CENT BONDS ATTRACTIVE TO LARGE INVESTORS.

The erroneous impression has been created that the new Liberty loan 4 per cent bonds are not attractive to persons with any considerable income. It should be understood that there are two taxes, the regular normal income tax, such as was paid last year, and the additional tax, which is to be levied during the period of the war.

For the following computation the most unfavorable basis is used, that is, it is supposed that the war will last five years, and furthermore, that the government will retire the bonds at the end of the ten-year option. If the war ends before five years, the return is greatly improved, and if the government allows the bonds to run after the optional period, which will undoubtedly be the case, the yield will also be improved. The method of computation is as follows:

On an income of $100,000 the present tax is 3.92 per cent. The total tax, including the special war tax, will be 16.43 per cent. Thus for five years the bonds would net the investor having $100,000 income, 3.34 per cent. For the five years following the bonds would net 3.84 per cent, the war income tax being removed, making a total income for the period of 3.59 annually. So it will be seen that even with a $100,000 income a 4 per cent bond is a better purchase than a 2 1/2 per cent bond. On incomes of a lower amount the income rate is higher, as per the following table:

On an income of $80,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.65 per cent annually.

On an income of $60,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.71 per cent annually.

On an income of $40,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.76 per cent annually.

On an income of $20,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.85 per cent annually.

On an income of $15,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.87 per cent annually.

On an income of $12,500, the income for the ten-year period is 3.89 per cent annually.

On an income of $10,000, the income for the ten-year period is 3.93 per cent annually.

On an income of $7,500, the income for the ten-year period is 3.93 per cent annually.

On an income of $5,000, the income for the ten-year period is 4 per cent annually.

Furthermore, these bonds, being exchangeable into the next loan, that loan must, like the other loans, be sold at par, so that this bond must continue to be worth par. For the above reasons it seems wise for the holders of 3 1/2 per cent bonds, instead of exchanging their bonds for the new 4 per cent bonds, that they offer their bonds for sale at par and buy 4 per cent bonds with the proceeds, thus largely increasing the subscriptions of the present loan.

LET US PLEDGE LOYALTY ANEW

By CLIFFORD V. GREGORY, Editor the Prairie Farmer.

Farmers this year have been blessed with one of the greatest crops this country has ever raised. Prices are far above normal. This combination of large crops and high prices has made farmers prosperous to an unusual degree.

The attendance was good, but only a fraction of what it should have been, for the Dixon boys are putting up a keen class of sport and merit big support. At their game with Wheaton, to be played here a week from next Saturday, the ground should be packed with Dixon people.

A Fast Game. Captain Whitcombe booted the pigskin neatly into the enemy's territory on the initial kickoff and his squad of bombers, shock troops, trench moppers and first line butlers, veterans all, with their new armor, worn for the first time on the home field, and composed of "helmets," well padded purple jerseys, "Ohio U" breeches, red and white stockings, etc., went over the top at the blast of the referee's whistle and charged across "No Man's Land" and into battle.

Clinton did not get far with the ball on the kickoff and failed to make their ten yards on the first four downs. Dixon thereby gained possession of the ball and, organizing the territory taken, proceeded to effect further advances without delay, taking "trench after trench," while the enemy strove vainly to stop the savage rushes on front and flank. Strategy as well as might was employed by the Dixon players and the first touchdown was effected during the first four minutes of play, when Schuler slipped the ball to Rynearson, who went over for the first score on a trick play. The goal kick failed. The casualties of this first skirmish were only among the Clinton players and time out was called while first aid was applied to Wolfe, Clinton tackle, who had twisted his ankle. He went back into the game wearing a bandage.

Dixon was penalized fifteen yards during the quarter for alleged tripping. A neat forward pass from Schuler to Rynearson was a feature of the first quarter and netted fifteen yards, but availed nothing in the final total, for time was called.

The second quarter started off with a snap and Dixon walked down the field steadily for a while and then on the jump, for Schuler got away with a long run around left end and was downed within one yard of the goal line, and Fullback Rynearson tore through for a touchdown on the next play. Schuler kicked a clean goal. Consistent ground gaining marked Dixon's playing all through the game and the ball was in Clintons' hands but a small fraction of the time.

Rynearson's out-tackle bucks were great ground gainers and the work of Schrock and Schofield and Schuler on end runs and short end rushes were also very effective. The line held well and did fine work in breaking up offensive interference and "counter attacks."

In the third quarter, Schuler tucked the ball under his wing and got away for another thirty-yard sprint. Schofield plunged through for a gain of ten yards, Schrock rushed for five and then the latter again carried the ball over for a touchdown. The goal kick failed.

In this same quarter Dixon got a little careless and fumbled, Clinton capturing the ball, but the visiting team's joy was short-lived, for they could gain no ground against the Dixon line and they failed to connect on their passes, and a punt went out of bounds. Held for downs, they forfeited the ball to Dixon, and Schuler got in another long run, but on the next play Dixon again fumbled and Clinton took another try five yards for an off-side play, and five yards off an off-side play, and the only real scare of the game for the local rooters came when a Clinton back got through Dixon's line for a fifteen-yard run, but was nailed before he got into the clear.

In the last quarter Clinton was being held for downs after the commencement of the play, and punted. Schrock made a nice catch of the punt but fumbled before he got away and Clinton recovered the ball. Clinton then, after ineffectual attempts to get the ball through the D. U. H. S. line, fumbled, and Shaw dropped on the ball.

Schuler lifted a forward pass to Hess, who connected and made a gain of twenty yards. Schofield negotiated along end run. Dixon's next forward pass was caught by Clinton. Clinton immediately tried a pass, which was not completed, and they tried again. Schofield caught Clinton's second pass.

With the ball in their possession, the Dixon players got down to business. Schrock connected with a neat forward pass and in the next play Schuler carried the ball for ten yards. Schrock and Rynearson both carried the ball for big gains in the succeeding plays, and with Clinton battling hard to defend her goal line, they got the ball up within a few yards of the goal, and Schuler went over for another touchdown. Schuler kicked goal.

With only a minute and a half to play on the final quarter, Clinton had no hopes of evening up the score. Clinton fumbled the kickoff and got away poorly. The visitors then were penalized for off-side playing, and finally punted, and Dixon got the punt. And then the timekeepers butted in and spoiled all the fun by announcing that the time was up and the game was over. The players of both teams quit with good feeling, and "fraternized" on the field, cheering each other.

SENATOR HUSTING IS SHOT TO DEATH

Wisconsin Lawmaker Accidentally Wounded by His Brother While Hunting.

RECEIVES CHARGE IN BACK

Selen Was One of Leading Supporters of Administration's War Program During Extra Session of Congress.

Milwaukee, Oct. 22.—Accidentally shot in the back by his brother, Gustave, while hunting ducks near Rush Lake, Wis., Sunday morning, United States Senator Paul O. Husting died at a farmhouse at Picketts, near by, late Sunday night.

Senator Husting recently returned to his home at Mayville, Wis., after the close of the extra session of congress, where he was one of the leading supporters of the administration's war program.

Wounded in the Back.
With his brother he had gone on a hunting expedition to Rush lake, and the two were in a boat when the accident occurred. He had sighted a flock of ducks and called for his brother to fire, and at the discharge of the shotgun he raised slightly, receiving the full charge of the gun in his back. He was rushed to the farmhouse, where all efforts to save his life were unavailing.

Born at Fond du Lac.
Senator Husting, a Democrat, was born at Fond du Lac on April 25, 1865. He went to Mayville with his parents some years later. After a common school education he began clerking in a general store. ## WAR RATIONS NEAR

U. S. Orders No Wheat Wednesdays or Meat Tuesdays.

Food Administrator Hoover Issues Order to Hotels—Urges All to Save Sugar.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Federal regulation and restriction of both the quantity and material of staple foods to be sold and consumed in this country will bring the war home to every individual in the nation generally this week in a way that even the draft, the Liberty loan, and the recent casualty lists have not done. Federal Food Administrator Hoover ordered:

"Beginning next Wednesday, October 24, every Wednesday shall be a wheatless day in American hotels and restaurants.

"Beginning Tuesday, October 30, every Tuesday shall be a meatless day in the public eating places.

"Beginning today, every day shall be as nearly a sugarless day as the patriotism and unselfishness of American citizens will allow."

And in the case of sugar the self-denial will not be confined to the patriotic and unselfish. Although the penalty has been provided for the individual who consumes more than his share of sugar, the government has already provided that the greedy ones shall be restricted.

Stores limited the sales of sugar to two pounds a week per family. Factories and wholesalers have already been ordered to ship their supplies to eastern markets, where a famine already is being felt.

As for the meatless and wheatless days the food administrator's orders apply directly to hotel and restaurant men. These men are told to serve neither meat nor wheat on the days specified. Many have already pledged themselves to this end. In homes the restriction will probably for the present be left to the patriotism of the families.

FAMOUS ENGINEER IS KILLED

Frank Larmand, Driver of Presidential Trains, Dies in Wreck.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 22.—Frank Larmand, for 35 years a trusted Southern railway engineer and driver of presidential specials, was fatally hurt when his train, the New York-Norfolk limited, sideswiped a local emerging from a siding near Larmand, a town named for the engineer. With his negro fireman, James L. Johnson, also mortally injured, Larmand was brought to a hospital here, where both of them died. Many passengers on the limited were thrown from their berths and badly bruised.

4 "ZEPS" SHOT DOWN

French Destroy Half of Fleet Which Raided England.

One Airship Brought Down in Flames —L49 Forced to Land by Chaser Planes—Crew Captured.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Although at first it was thought that the visit of the Zeppelin fleet to France was an independent raid, carrying out the threat made in a German wireless message to destroy Paris in reprisal for French air raids on German towns, it now is generally believed that these eight Zeppelins, four of which were destroyed or captured, were returning from England, that they had lost their bearings owing to fog and probably were out of touch with their wireless communications.

Of the four Zeppelins lost two were destroyed and two were forced to descend. The two disabled airships, under attack by aviators and anti-air defense posts, descended in the Saine valley and were forced to land in the neighborhood of Sisteron, in Basses-Alpes. The crews after setting fire to the airships attempted to flee but were taken prisoner.

SHOW HIM HE IS WRONG.

"Farmers will neither buy Liberty Bonds, pay taxes, sell their produce nor fight."

E. D. Hulbert, president of the Merchants Loan and Trust company, one of the most conservative bankers in the middle west, as well as one of the best informed, has made this charge against the farmers of the seventh federal reserve district in connection with the sale of Liberty Bonds. In other words, Mr. Hulbert charges the farmers with "profiteering," or refusing aid to the government in time of war to their own financial advantage.

Will the farmers of this district, comprising the choicest agricultural lands of the nation, permit this charge to go unchallenged? Will they not disprove it by opening their bank accounts to the government and buy these bonds?

Nearly one-half of the nation's income goes to the farmer, says Mr.
Hulbert, and quotes the controller of the currency at Washington as his authority. How can the farmers of this country, who in times past have been the backbone financially and patriotically of the nation, read these statements and continue to hold aloof when the United States is engaged in a war with the greatest military power the world has ever known and is in need of money?

"They (the farmers) have profited throughout the entire period of the war, but are unwilling to help the government in any of the four ways mentioned," continued the banker. "It is about time the farmer should appreciate his position in the country and help do his part in a war as much for his benefit as for those who are putting up the money and doing the fighting for him."

This is a severe arraignment of the farmer and a sad commentary on his patriotism, and we cannot believe that it will be justified by the final totals of Liberty Bonds bought by the farmers of Lee County at least, for we believe that the farmers of Lee County will do their full share toward the big, popular loan before the campaign closes.

During the first Liberty Bond campaign the farmers were very busy in the important work of planting and cultivating their crops, and their money was tied up in this work, which means so much to the welfare of the nation. Now, however, the crops have been largely gathered and prices are high, so the farmers of this county will have nothing more to restrain them from joining in and doing their bit with the bonds, and we are confident that they will do so. Our farmers have red blood in their veins and they are intensely American. They are the backbone of the country and they will not go down in history as being lacking in patriotism.

The time is short. Saturday night of this week ends the Second Liberty Loan campaign. Get busy, Mr. Farmer, and show Chicago, New York and other big financial centers that the country districts are just as willing to do their share as the cities.

BUY YOUR LIBERTY BONDS EARLY.

The American people have one fault, if fault it may be called—they wait until the last minute before doing what they have intended all the time to do.

Government officials at Washington are appealing to the nation to rally to the second Liberty Loan. Subscriptions are not rolling into the Treasury Department as rapidly as is desired. That the issue will be a tremendous success, that it will be heavily oversubscribed, is confidently believed in all quarters where the question has been given serious consideration.

But that procrastination on the part of the public! During the last few days of the present campaign, which is scheduled to close October 27, there will undoubtedly be a great rush to get in before the books are closed, thereby literally swamping every one and every thing. That is just what the officials seek to avoid, but that the necessary funds will be available no one doubts for an instant.

HELP MAKE IT SUCCESSFUL.

The second Liberty Loan will be—must be—a success. A little thought on the part of any one will prove conclusively the necessity for such success.

The merchant will suffer irreparable loss should this loan fail; the investor will lose on stocks for it would mean a great slump in the market of all securities.

Farmers must be convinced that Liberty Bonds are the best security in the world and that the preservation of democracy and the defeat of autocracy means as much to them as to any other class of people. The thrifty must be impressed with the safety of the investment, the careless must be urged to reduce their spendings and put their money into this loan to the government.

These facts must be driven home to everybody—that they are not patriotic unless they buy Liberty Bonds to the limit of their resources.

BONDS WILL SELL AT PREMIUM.

Henry Clews, in his weekly financial letter, says of the Liberty Loan:
"The influence of the war upon finance and industry becomes more intense each day. At the moment it overshadows every other factor, and the country is completely absorbed in bending every energy to the preservation of democracy. In keeping with this spirit the financial community is strenuously pushing the Liberty Loan, which promises to be a complete success; the applications having already approached nearly $2,000,000,000.
In all probability the loan will be well over-subscribed. This is highly encouraging. As we have already stated, these bonds as an investment are the safest and best in the world. Within a few years, if not sooner, they will sell at a handsome premium, and it is an imperative duty for every citizen to assume his share of the financial responsibility in conducting the war by subscribing in proportion to his ability."

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Belgian port of Ostend, which is a submarine base of the Germans on the North sea, has been bombarded from the sea. It was announced by the German war office, houses in the town being damaged.

The text of the statement reads:
"Western theater: Ostend has been bombarded from the sea. Damage has been caused to houses in the town."

London, Oct. 22.—British naval janes dropped a large quantity of bombs on the Engel airbase and the fire in the German establishments.

Reporting military operations on the

Paris, Oct. 22.—German forces at night attacked the French positions west of Mont Cornillet, in the Meuse area; on both banks of the River Meuse, in the Verdun region, and in the sector of La Chapelle. The French war office statement says all the assaults were repulsed, the French capturing a number of Germans.

END OF COAL STRIKE NEAR

Garfield Expects Men Will Be Back at Work This Week.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Fuel Administrator Garfield, before leaving Washington for Ohio to visit his sick mother, received encouraging advices from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio points where coal miners have been conducting unauthorized strikes.

The fuel administrator said he believed all the strikers would return to the mines early this week. Meanwhile consideration is being given to the readjustment of coal price scales, which may warrant increases in wages
in some of the coal districts.

Fuel officials reiterated that the government would not be forced by unauthorized strikes into reaching a decision, and it is certain that no decision will be announced until strikers return to work.

LLINOIS OFFICER IS DEAD

Lieut. C. L. Starkel of 342d Infantry
Dies at Camp Grant.

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 22.—The Eighty-sixth division lost its first officer through the death of Second Lieut.
Charles L. Starkel of Belleville, Ill.
Lieutenant Starkel was taken ill with anemia last Tuesday while at drill.
His father, Dr. C. H. Starkel, surgeon of the Kansas City & Southern railroad, was sent for. The father was with him at the end. Lieutenant Star-kel was a graduate of the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan, being a member of Company 4, under command of Captain Madison. The dead officer was twenty-two years of age and a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Business Came First.

Some time ago two Chinese generals had planned a battle in the Chengtu plain, writes Owen Williams in the Christian Herald. It was within a few days of the rice harvest. The people petitioned the generals to call off their battle until the rice was harvested, and they did so. Then they went on with the fighting. But the days of such common sense are passing. Militarism is coming to demand more respect than that.

LIGHTWEIGHTS MET DEFEAT SATURDAY

DIXON FOOTBALL TEAM WAS OUTWEIGHED AT MOOSEHEART.

BOYS PLUCKY IN FACE OF BIG ODDS

By the very one-sided score of 46 to 0, the Dixon Light Weight High School football team was defeated
Saturday at Mooseheart, the 33 pounds to the man, by which the Mooseheart lads outweighed the Dixon boys, giving them the decided advantage from the start. The whole blow with Dixon kicking off.
A Mooseheart boy got the ball and ran the length of the field for the first touchdown without a stop. This, rather discouraged the Dixon lads,
but they fought gamely. Mooseheart managed to cross the goal three more times in the first quarter and once in the second.

In the second half the Dixon boys came back with a fine display of Dixon fighting spirit, holding the Moose to a scoreless period and pushing the ball up to the Aurora lads' ten-yard line. In this period Allen's catches of forward passes were great. The third quarter was another Mooseheart period, two more touchdowns being their harvest.
Courtright was the Dixon star in the game, but all deserve great credit for the pluck with which they tackled their heavier opponents. The Dixon lineup was:

Left end, Roe; left tackle, Man-
Boynton; right end, Allen; right tackle, Downs; right guard, Fruin; quarterback, Pool; Hess; right halfback, Cortright; left halfback, Powell; full back, Drummond.

TOLD BAPTISTS OF DIXON NEGRO LIFE

DR. E. P. BRAND REPORTED ESTABLISHMENT OF MISSION HERE.

Rev. George W. Stoddard returned Friday afternoon from the Baptist State Convention, which was held in Moline. He reports an interesting paragraph from Dr. E. P.
Brand's report in regard to the increasing growth of the negro population in Illinois. He declared that hundreds of thousands of negroes have come from the south into the north within the last six months. In speaking of the work of Rev. E. H.
Fletcher he said, "He has done quite an extensive work this year. He has made regular visits to Dixon and Keokuk, Ia. He organized a new church at East Moline, where the negro population is rapidly increasing. He also organized one at Dixon, where there are now about 150 negroes, and no other colored church or mission."

There were 482 delegates and visitors registered. Four towns helped to entertain the guests, Rock Island, Moline, East Moline and Watertown. There were four big banquets during the convention:
Shurtleff College, University of Chicago, the Missionary women and the general banquet on the last evening.
The Dixon delegates will conduct an "Echo" meeting on Wednesday night at the church, when a full report will be given.

CONGRESS UNHESITANT TO VOTE WAR BILLIONS

Enormous Sums of Money Authorized Without Protest or Dissenting Voice.

Since war was declared on Germany last April, congress has appropriated more than $7,000,000,000 for the army and $1,605,000,000 for the navy. This includes the enormous appropriation in the recently enacted $8,000,000,000 urgent deficiency bill. It does not, however, include more than $2,000,000-000 of contracts which the army and navy have been authorized to negotiate, but for which no cash has yet been made available. By the time congress re-convenes in December, Several billions more will be needed, although authorities believe that with the initial expenses met, the war's cost in dollars and cents will not be quite so tremendous.

Last April congress passed the army appropriation bill carrying $273,000-000. At about the same time it passed the naval appropriation bill carrying $517,000,000. In June, after the unprecedented money needs of the war began to be foreseen, congress passed a deficiency bill, giving the army $2,315,000,000, and the navy $514,000,000. In the urgent deficiency bill just passed, the army is allowed $4,352,000,000 and the navy $578,000-000.

In the last deficiency bill a single item of more than $2,000,000,000 was provided for the purchase of ordnance and ordnance stores. This is an illustration of the gigantic scale upon which the United States is going into the war. The measure provides for building, construction of works of a semipermanent character in France
so as to prepare for years of warfare
if necessary.

Congress has voted all these enormous amounts without a protest or a dissenting voice. Not even a roll call has been required for the final passage of the big money bills. Members, including even the pacifists, want the American soldiers to be the best conditioned fighting men in the world and it is realized that one of the surest guarantees of minimum casualty lists is money sufficient to equip the troops for every emergency.

200,000 IN BIG WAR RALLY

Chicagoans Take Part in Great Patriotic Demonstration.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—An epoch in patriotism was enacted in Chicago Sunday afternoon.

More than 200,000 persons gathered on the lake front and along Michigan avenue to pay homage to the flag and its defenders on "Illinois—America Day." Four thousand and more—all the Auditorium theater could accommodate—heard addresses by Governor Lowden, Congressman Henry T.
Rainey and Clarence S. Darrow. The 200,000 citizens turned out for one purpose—to let the rest of the nation know that Illinois and Chicago are in the war to the finish. When Lieut.
John Philip Sousa swept down the street, leading the Great Lakes Naval Training band, he was given an ovation.
Six hundred naval youngsters and 1,100 members of the Eleventh regiment, Illinois infantry, followed, and all entered in the military pageant staged in the park. Five thousand Knights Templar, resplendent in colorful uniforms, paraded to the music of three bands.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Philadelphia Record: From the moment the army recruit steps forth from the mass of his fellows to take his place in the ranks of a soldier he reduces the available labor supply of the country and becomes a tax upon its resources. He must be fed, housed, clothed, weaponed, transported and drilled to do his share in the fighting. To provide the food, housing, clothing, munitions, transport and necessary drill for our boys in the field and on the way to conditions of readiness has already cost billions of dollars. People who do their thinking upon a cursory study of national resources, without any adequate notion of the cost involved in bringing about a state of military readiness, have no seeming realization of the absolute dependence which must be placed upon the maintenance of industry. Upon labor, skilled and unskilled, rests the whole weight of fighting preparedness and efficiency. We must have corn and coal and cotton and copper. We must have iron and steel, and ships and guns, as well as fighting men. How to make good the drain of the camps upon the supply of men needed in the fields, mines and factories, and in the transport and trading of the country, is the most puzzling problem of the time.

In the hand of labor is the only solution. We must keep our soldiers and sailors fed and in fighting trim, and at the same time lend to our allies all possible aid in bringing the war to a victorious close. To this end, while the boys at the front fight and bleed, the men and women who remain at home must dig and save. By digging and saving we shall surely win.

Ralston Shoes For Men

SAVE--By Spending a Little More.

It's more essential to consider quality in buying shoes than in buying almost any other article of apparel.

Shoes are called upon to stand harder service a more direct wear and tear, than your hat or your clothes for instance, therefore their calibre is the more quickly established.

Buy first quality shoes—the easiest and surest way is to buy Ralstons.

If Ralstons cost a bit more than some shoes, it's because they are worth it. Every cent you pay for them goes into the shoes themselves—the money is there down to the last penny. The way they have always stood up under wear is proof of that.

We have arranged for a series of six interesting articles, "War Talks, by Uncle Dan," written by Mr. Howard H. Gross, president of the Universal Military Training League, of which this is the first. They tell in a graphic way why military training is of value, both to the nation and to the individual, and our readers will find them of unusual interest.

America Must Fight Hard or Germany May Win—Necessity for Military Training.

"Now, Billie," said his mother, "your Uncle Dan is coming tomorrow to spend a week with us on the farm, and if you want to know about the war, here's your opportunity. Uncle Dan is probably one of the best-informed men in the country." Billie clapped his hands and gave such a whoop that he awakened the baby, but what could you expect of a fifteen-year-old boy who is a living interrogation point and wants to know about war?

Uncle Dan arrived in due time and Billie watched for an opportunity. It came that evening after dinner when Uncle Dan had lighted a cigar and taken a seat on the porch.

"I'm mighty glad you came, Uncle Dan. I want to talk to you about the war. We have just put military training in our township high school, but we had a hard time to do it. The Joneses and the Greggs objected. They said the war wouldn't come over here. Grandma Jones said: 'They ain't no use to worry it, it will soon blow over.' Well, we put the training in just the same. You order heard Judge Brownell, the president of the school board, do the slackers up. He said unless we take off our coats and go to it, Germany may yet win, and if she does, she will take over the great British fleet as a war trophy and compel us to do what ever she wants to; that she could make us pay all the cost of the war; the Kaiser could tax us as he pleased and that we couldn't help ourselves. He could make every one pay over a part of what he earns; that he could make the farmers pay rent for their own farms, etc. Now, Uncle, what do you think of that?"

"Well, my boy," said Uncle Dan, "all that Judge Brownell says might easily come true and may unless we go quickly to the aid of the allies with large numbers of men and help them break the German line. Unless we can beat the submarines, they may prevent us from getting enough food to the allies to keep them going. In that case Germany would win. As matters stand today, our greatest need is trained men. If we had had several millions of men with military training in our industries and on our farms when the war came, who could have been called at once for service, I do not believe the Kaiser would have forced the war upon us. As it was, he had no respect for us, and now we are in it and must go through with it. But never again must we be caught so wholly unprepared."

"There is only one safe way," said Uncle Dan, "and that is to adopt permanently universal military training, apply it to every young man who is physically fit, say in his nineteenth or twentieth year. The training can be carried forward in the United States training camps that are now being established for training men called by the selective draft. As soon as these men vacate these stations, they should be filled by younger men, and this should be made the permanent policy of the country."

Billie's mother, Mrs. Graham, had overheard the conversation. She came out and said: "Really, Brother Dan, are you serious as to the dangers of our country? If it is as bad as that, it is high time for us to wake up and do something about it."

"Exactly," replied Uncle Dan. "It is better to wake up now than to be rudely awakened later. We may as well understand, sister, that this is our war and we must win it or God help America. Everything that we have or hope to have—our liberties, our blessings, our opportunities are all involved in the great issue before us. Nothing must stand between us and winning this war. It is a question whether the peoples' right or the Kaiser's might shall dominate the world. If there ever was a holy war, this is it. We are fighting for world liberty. We are fighting for the freedom of humanity. We are fighting for the right of men to govern themselves instead of being governed against their will by a war-mad overlord. Perilous times are ahead of us. We must be prepared to make any sacrifice, to perform any service that may be required of us."

"Oh, Uncle Dan," exclaimed Billie, "may I bring my chum, Jimmie Collins, when we have our next talk? He is a bug on this war business and just crazy to see you."

"Certainly," said Uncle Dan, with a hearty laugh. "If we are to have more talks, I shall be glad to have Jimmie join us."

Billie clapped his hands and ran to the phone and told Jimmie to be over at seven o'clock the next evening.

DIXON SOLDIERS BUYING BONDS

Mrs. H. W. Stevens of east of town has received a letter recently from her son, Howard Metzler, in which he stated that all the boys in all the army camps in the United States will eat turkey on Thanksgiving Day. That looks like a pretty big proposition, but if anyone can round up that many turkeys, it's surely Uncle Sam. Mr. Metzler makes the statement, quoting the colonel of the regiment.

Battery C, which has but sixty-five men now, have purchased over $5,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. Pretty good for old Company G? The boys pay for their bonds by deducting $10 per month out of their pay for every $100 bond purchased, and get their 4 per cent interest from the start. At first thought it looks a little hard that the soldier boys, who sacrifice so much, should help to pay their own way, but 'tis a good way to insure saving a bit of their own pay for future use.

UNDERWENT OPERATION

Miss Mary Payne has left the hospital to return to her home in Racine, Wis., after a successful operation for crossed eyes, performed by a Dixon specialist.

WHY BUY U. S. BONDS?

will require millions and millions of money to supply the actual necessities of life. We should be glad to cut out our comforts, that they may not suffer. Look at the present situation, the great Russian army crushed and demoralized. The Germans are taking them prisoners by the thousands, capturing hundreds of their cannon and as well their winter provisions and supplies. They appear helpless, and about ready to cry enough, and make a separate peace, and then what? The great German army of the east will be thrown to the western line, where the French and British now have all they can hold back; who can tell the outcome, when this additional force is hurled against them? Is it possible the allies can stand the strain?

Our boys, but now partially prepared, will be hurled to the firing line, and pitted against this well trained German host, who seem to value life but lightly. There can be but one result, hundreds of our boys will not live to return, thousands will be disfigured by loss of arms and legs when they begin to return to us in this condition, then will we realize the seriousness of the situation and we all home who have furnished no aid will have cause for regret, as it may then be too late. Our government calls upon us for three billion dollars to keep the enemy from our shores, for their long distance cannons; should the Germans be successful, should they win this war, besides killing and wounding thousands of our best young men, they will demand indemnity ten times three billion dollars, and we will be obliged to pay it which will make our living expenses and taxes for many years more than double what we now pay. They have demanded and collected many millions from the large cities they have captured.

There are just two ways open to do our part. One is to shoulder a musket and be off to the firing line, the other way is to invest in as many Liberty bonds as you possibly can, and induce your neighbors and friends to do the same.

Do not say you cannot afford to, as you truly cannot afford not to. Call your family together, talk this more than important subject over; you will see where you are spending the money for comforts that you can cut out for a time; with this money you can buy a bond on time payments and have the satisfaction of being a bondholder of the United States government. You are loaning the money to yourself.

You are a part of this great country that is threatened by an invasion of an enemy, who knows little of mercy, as official records show. When this subscription closes, if each and every one has done his share, Dixon will be truly entitled to hold its head high.

Don't delay, this is the last week; arrange your affairs promptly; all you now require is 2% of the amount you subscribe.

Our soldiers at home and abroad are subscribing for these bonds freely, are they not warranted in considering any man a slacker who can do so, but will not?

GEORGE C. LOVELAND.

FANE CASE WAS CONTINUED TODAY

Leo Fane of Harmon, who was arrested last week on statutory charge preferred by a Harmon young lady, was arraigned in Justice Gehant's court this morning. Part of the evidence in the case was taken, after which a continuance until Nov. 6th was granted.

RULE WHISKEY MAY COME IN

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
Washington, Oct. 22.—The Solicitor of the Treasury today decided that distilled spirits may be imported into the U. S. notwithstanding the prohibition against such importation in the food bill.

A section of the revenue bill repeals the prohibition of imports in the food bill, says the solicitor.

TRANSPORT LOSS WAS 67 LIVES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
Washington, Oct. 22.—Sixty-seven lives were lost when the army transport Antilles went down last Wednesday by the torpedo of a German submarine. The official list of casualties, cable today by General Pershing, shows a sixty-seven lost, total survivors 17, and one unaccounted for.

HAVE BABY DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Burtisfield are the parents of a baby daughter, born at the Dixon hospital last Friday. Mrs. Burtisfield was formerly Miss Jessie M. Stitt, R. N.

Snakes in Australia.

Australia is said to have about 100 species of snakes, three-fourths of them venomous. The big pythons and rock-snakes are harmless, but as one travels from the various tropics southward the dangerous varieties increase in number, and in Tasmania all are venomous, though only five are really deadly.

DRUG STORES TO CLOSE.

The druggists of Dixon will close their stores on Wednesday at 6 p. m. until the Liberty loan parade is over.

RUSSIA'S PEACE PROGRAM GIVEN

Terms Proposed by Workmen's Council Call for Restoration of Lands.

WANT PANAMA CANAL FREE

No Indemnity or Annexation—Unhampered Sea—Compensation for Belgium—Kerensky Says Slavs Will Never Bow to Force.

Petrograd, Oct. 22.—The Russian peace program, as drawn up by the central executive committee of the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates in the form of instructions to M. Skobelev, ex-minister of labor, as delegate to the Paris conference, consists of fifteen articles covering the whole ground from Panama to Persia.

Article XI demands the "neutralization" of the Panama canal and article IX calls for the restitution of all colonies to Germany. The program follows:

"First—Evacuation by the Germans of Russia and autonomy of Poland, Lithuania and the Lettish provinces.

"Second—Autonomy of Turkish Armenia.

"Third—Solution of the Alsace-Lorraine question by a plebiscite, the voting being arranged by local civil authorities after the removal of all the troops of both belligerents.

"Fourth—Restoration to Belgium of her ancient frontiers and compensation for her losses from an international fund.

"Fifth—Restoration of Serbia and Montenegro with similar compensation. Serbia to have access to the Adriatic. Bosnia and Herzegovina to be autonomous.

"Sixth—Disputed Balkan districts to receive provisional autonomy, followed by a plebiscite.

"Seventh—Roumania to be restored her old frontiers on condition that she grant Dobruja autonomy and grant equal rights to Jews.

"Eighth—Autonomy for the Italian provinces of Austria, to be followed by a plebiscite.

"Ninth—Restoration of all colonies to Germany.

"Tenth—Re-establishment of Greece and Persia.

"Eleventh—Neutralization of all straits leading to inner seas and also the Suez and Panama canals. Freedom of navigation for merchant ships. Abolition of the right to torpedo merchant ships in war time.

"Twelfth—All belligerents to renounce war contributions or indemnities in any form, but the money spent on the maintenance of prisoners and all contributions levied during the war to be returned."

No More Secret Treaties.
"Thirteenth—Commercial treaties not to be based on the peace treaty; each country may act independently with respect to its commercial policy, but all countries to engage to renounce an economic blockade after the war.

"Fourteenth—The condition of peace should be settled by a peace congress consisting of delegates elected by the people and confirmed by parliament. Diplomats must engage not to conclude secret treaties, which hereby are declared contrary to the rights of the people and consequently void.

"Fifteenth—Gradual disarmament by land and sea and the establishment of a nonmilitary system."

Protests Capital's Removal.
The troops comprising the classes of 1896 and 1897—forty-one and forty-two years of age—have been demobilized.

The central committee of the workmen's and soldiers' deputies is protesting against the removal of the government to Moscow. The committee declares that it will not follow the government, but "will remain in Petrograd until the last moment."

"Will Not Bow to Force."
Premier Kerensky, on opening the Russian preliminary parliament in the Marinsky palace, made a ringing speech in which he said:

"Russia's peace by right, but we never will bow our heads to force." This declaration was warmly applauded by the members of all political factions. The premier, who had just recovered from his recent illness and was slightly pale, stood on a raised dais in the great audience hall.

BANKS ROBBED OF $37,000

Bandits Make Two Hauls in Michigan Towns.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 22.—Sheriff's posse are searching for four bank robbers who blew safes at the Farmers' State bank at Alto and the Farmers' State bank at Middleville. After cutting all telephone wires the bandits secured $15,000 at Alto and from there traveled twenty miles east to Middleville, where they secured $22,000.

Indict Minnesota Editor.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 22.—D. R. Johnson, editor of the People's Magazine, formerly the Royal People's Magazine, published here, was indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of "interfering with and discouraging enlistments." He was arraigned and after pleading not guilty was released on $2,500 bail.

2 GIRLS KILLED BY TRAIN

Sisters Crushed to Death at Collinsville, Ill.

Collinsville, Ill., Oct. 22.—Mary Roncheto, fourteen years old, and her sister, Jolene, ten, were killed, and a third sister, Edith, eight, and Alfrido Sanlino, twenty-two, were seriously injured when they were struck by a fast Vandalia train. They were standing on the track waiting for a freight train to pass on another track and did not see the approaching passenger train.

Fix Milk Price at 10 Cents.

Boston, Oct. 22.—The state food administration made provision whereby Boston consumers will be supplied with milk at the uniform price of ten cents a quart.

L. W. Miller transacted business in Chicago today.

CHARLES WELTY HERE.
C. F. Welty, a prominent resident of Marion township, was a Dixon visitor Saturday.

It isn't just because Mr. Welty paid another year ahead on his Evening Telegraph that we say nice things about him, but because he really deserves it. Mr. Welty, who is an ex-Supervisor and an ex-County Treasurer of Lee County, and has more friends than almost anybody we know, is very busy just now organizing his township to subscribe its full quota of Liberty Loan Bonds.

CHAPTER VIII.

Korak and Meriem.

For many months the strange life of the three went on unmarked by any unusual occurrences—at least without any occurrences that seemed unusual to the youth or the ape—but to the little girl it was a constant nightmare of horrors for days and weeks until she, too, became accustomed to gazing into the eyeless sockets of death and to the feel of the icy wind of his shroudlike mantle.

Slowly she learned the rudiments of the only common medium of thought exchange which her companions possessed—the language of the great apes. More quickly she perfected herself in jungle craft, so that the time soon came when she was an important factor in the chase, watching while the others slept or helping them to trace the spoor of whatever prey they might be stalking.

Akut accepted her on a footing which bordered upon equality when it was necessary for them to come into close contact, but for the most part he avoided her. The youth always was kind to her, and if there were many occasions upon which he felt the burden of her presence he hid it from her. Finding that the night damp and chill caused her discomfort and even suffering, Korak constructed a tiny little shelter high among the swaying branches of a giant tree. Here little Meriem slept in comparative warmth and safety, while the Killer and the ape perched upon nearby branches, the former always before the entrance to the lofty domicile, where he best could guard its inmate from the dangers of arboreal enemies.

After the construction of the shelter the activities of the three became localized. They ranged less widely, for there was always the necessity of returning to their own tree at nightfall.

A river flowed near by. Game and fruit were plentiful, as were fish also. Existence had settled down to the daily humdrum of the wild—the search for food and the sleeping upon full bellies. They looked no further ahead than today.

If the youth thought of his past and of those who longed for him in the distant metropolis it was in a detached and impersonal sort of way, as though that other life belonged to another creature than himself. He had given up hope of returning to civilization, for, since his various rebuffs at the hands of those to whom he had looked for friendship, he had wandered so far inland as to realize that he was completely lost in the mazes of the jungle.

Then, too, since the coming of Meriem he had found in her that one thing which he had most missed before in his savage jungle life—human companionship.

The little girl idolized him, as she might have idolized an indulgent brother had she had one. Love was a thing unknown to either. But as the youth neared manhood it was inevitable that it should come to him, as it did to every other savage jungle male.

As Meriem became proficient in their common language the pleasures of their companionship grew correspondingly, for now they could converse, and, aided by the mental powers of their human heritage, they amplified the restricted vocabulary of the apes until talking was transformed from a task into an enjoyable pastime.

When Korak hunted Meriem usually accompanied him, for she had learned the fine art of silence when silence was desirable. She could pass through the branches of the great trees now with all the agility and stealth of the Killer himself. Great heights no longer appalled her. She swung from limb to limb, or she sped through the mighty branches, sure footed, lithe and fearless. Korak was very proud of her, and even old Akut granted in approval where before he had growled in contempt.

A distant village of blacks had furnished her with a mantle of fur and feathers, with copper ornaments and weapons, for Korak would not permit her to go unarmed or unarmed in the use of the weapons he stole for her. A light spear and a long knife were her weapons of offense or defense.

Her body, rounding into the fulness of an early maturity, followed the lines of a Greek goddess, but there the similarity ceased, for her face was beautiful.

As she grew more accustomed to the jungle and the ways of its wild denizens, fear left her. As time wore on she even hunted alone when Korak and Akut were prowling at a great distance, as they were sometimes forced to do when game was scarce in their immediate vicinity. Upon these occasions she usually confined her endeavors to the smaller animals, though sometimes she brought down a deer and once even Horta, the bear, a great tusker that might have made even Sheeta think twice before attacking him.

After Korak had left the village of the blacks following his last thieving expedition the screams of women and children had brought the warriors in from the forest and the river. Great was the excitement and hot was the rage of the men when they learned that the white devil had again entered their homes, frightened their women and stolen arrows and ornaments and food.

Even their superstitious fear of this weird creature who hunted with a huge bull ape was overcome in their desire to wreak vengeance upon him and rid themselves for good and all of the menace of his presence in the jungle.

And so it was that a score of the fittest and most doughty warriors of the tribe set out in pursuit of Korak and Akut but a few minutes after they had left the scene of the Killer's many depredations.

The little party of warriors was led by Kovudoo, the chief, a middle aged savage of exceptional cunning and bravery. It was he who first came within sight of the quarry which they had followed for hours by the mysterious methods of their almost uncanny powers of observation, intuition and even scent.

The white youth and the white maid stood alone in the jungle when they were discovered by Kovudoo's band. Akut had been made king of his ape tribe, and Korak, to Akut's sorrow, had left him to dwell with Meriem in the jungle. One of Kovudoo's men leaned close to the ear of his chief.

"Look!" he whispered and pointed to something that dangled at the girl's side. "When my brother and I were slaves in the village of the chief my brother made that thing for the chief's little daughter. She played with it all ways and called it after my brother, whose name is Geeka. Just before we escaped some one came and struck down the chief, stealing his daughter away. If this is she the chief will pay you well for her return."

Korak's arm had gone around the shoulders of Meriem. And then from behind him broke a hideous bedlam of savage war cries, and a score of shrieking blacks were upon them.

Korak turned to give battle, Meriem with her own light spear poised by his side. An avalanche of barbed missiles flew about them. One pierced Korak's shoulder, another his leg, and he went down.

Meriem was unscathed for the blacks had intentionally spared her. Now they rushed forward to finish Korak and make good the girl's capture. But as they came there came also from another point in the jungle the great Akut and at his heels the huge bulls of his new kingdom.

Snarling and roaring, they rushed upon the black warriors when they saw the mischief they had already wrought. Kovudoo, realizing the danger of coming to close quarters with these mighty ape men, seized Meriem and called upon his warriors to retreat.

For a time the apes followed them, and several of the blacks were badly mauled and one killed before they succeeded in escaping. Nor would they have got off thus easily had Akut not been more concerned with the condition of the wounded Korak than with their hearts.

Their plans were well made. There was no mention of the white prisoner. They chose to pretend that they were not aware that Kovudoo had a white prisoner. They exchanged gifts with the old chief, haggling with his plant-potentials over the value of what they were to receive for what they gave, as is customary and proper when one has no ulterior motives. Unwarranted generosity would have aroused suspicion.

During the palaver which followed they retained the gossip of the villages through which they had passed, receiving in exchange such news as Kovudoo possessed. The palaver was long and tiresome, as these native ceremonies always are to Europeans. Kovudoo made no mention of his prisoner, and from his generous efforts of guides and presents seemed anxious to assure himself of the speedy departure of his guests.

It was Meriem who, quite casually, near the close of their talk, mentioned the fact that the chief was dead. Kovudoo evinced interest and surprise.

"You did not know it?" asked Meriem. "That is strange. It was during the last moon. He fell from his horse when the beast stepped in a hole. The horse fell upon him. When his men came up the chief was quite dead."

Kovudoo scratched his head. He was much disappointed. No chief meant no ransom for the white girl.

"I know where there is a white girl," he said unexpectedly. "If you wish to buy her she may be had cheap." Meriem shrugged. "We have trouble enough, Kovudoo," he said, "without burdening ourselves with an old, broken down she hyena, and as for paying for one"—Meriem snapped his fingers.

"She is young," said Kovudoo, "and good looking."

The Swedes laughed. "There are no good looking white women in the jungle," Kovudoo said. "Jensen. You should be ashamed to try to make fun fruits which helped to slake his thirst and allay his fever, and little by little his powerful constitution overcame the effects of the spear thrusts. The wounds healed and his strength returned.

All during his rational moments as he had lain upon the soft furs which lined Meriem's nest he had suffered more acutely from fears for Meriem than from the pain of his own wounds. For her he must live; for her he must regain his strength that he might set out in search of her. But it was many a day before strength returned to him.

Meriem, bound and under heavy guard in Kovudoo's own hut, had no doubt but that Korak would come back and still less that he would easily free her.

So now as she lay waiting for him she dreamed of him and of all that he meant to her. She compared him with the sheik, her father, and at the thought of the stern, grizzled old Arab she shuddered. Even the savage blacks had been less harsh to her than he.

Not understanding their tongue, she could not guess what purpose they had in keeping her a prisoner. She knew that man ate man, and she had expected to be eaten, but she had been with them for some time now, and no harm had befallen her.

She did not know that a runner had been dispatched to the distant village of the sheik to barter with him for a ransom. She did not know, nor did Kovudoo, that the runner had never reached his destination; that he had fallen in with the safari of Jensen and Malibu and with the talkativeness of a native had unfolded his whole mission to the black servants of the two Swedes.

These had not been long in retelling the matter to their masters, and the result was that when the runner left their camp to continue his journey he had scarce passed from sight before there came the report of a rifle, and he rolled lifeless into the underbrush with a bullet hole in his back.

A few moments later Malibu stroled back into the encampment, where he went to some pains to let it be known that he had had a shot at a fine buck and missed. The Swedes knew that their men hated them and that an overt act against Kovudoo would quickly be carried to the chief at the first opportunity. Nor were they sufficiently strong in either guns or loyal followers to risk antagonizing the wily old chief.

The next day the Swedes set out for Kovudoo's village, bent on securing possession of the person of the white girl whom Kovudoo's runner had told them lay captive in the chief's village. How they were to accomplish their end they did not know. Force was out of the question, though they would not have hesitated to use it had they possessed it.

In former years they had marched roughed out enormous areas, taking toll by brute force even when kindness or diplomacy would have accomplished more. But now they were in bad straits—so bad that they had not shown their true colors scarce twice in a year, and then only when they came upon an isolated weak village.

Kovudoo was not of these, and though his village was in a way remote from the more populous district to the north, his power was such that he maintained an acknowledged suzerainty over the thin thread of villages which connected him with the savage lands to the north.

To have antagonized him would have spelled ruin for the Swedes. It would have meant that they might never reach civilization by the northern route. To the west the village of the sheik lay directly in their path, barring them effectually. To the east the trail was unknown to them, and to the south there was no trail.

CHAPTER IX.

When Thieves Fall Out.

So the two Swedes approached the village of Kovudoo with friendly words upon their tongues and deep craft in their hearts.

Their plans were well made. There was no mention of the white prisoner. They chose to pretend that they were not aware that Kovudoo had a white prisoner. They exchanged gifts with the old chief, haggling with his plant-potentials over the value of what they were to receive for what they gave, as is customary and proper when one has no ulterior motives. Unwarranted generosity would have aroused suspicion.

During the palaver which followed they retained the gossip of the villages through which they had passed, receiving in exchange such news as Kovudoo possessed. The palaver was long and tiresome, as these native ceremonies always are to Europeans. Kovudoo made no mention of his prisoner, and from his generous efforts of guides and presents seemed anxious to assure himself of the speedy departure of his guests.

It was Meriem who, quite casually, near the close of their talk, mentioned the fact that the sheik was dead. Kovudoo evinced interest and surprise.

"You did not know it?" asked Meriem. "That is strange. It was during the last moon. He fell from his horse when the beast stepped in a hole. The horse fell upon him. When his men came up the sheik was quite dead."

Kovudoo scratched his head. He was much disappointed. No sheik meant no ransom for the white girl.

"I know where there is a white girl," he said unexpectedly. "If you wish to buy her she may be had cheap." Meriem shrugged. "We have trouble enough, Kovudoo," he said, "without burdening ourselves with an old, broken down she hyena, and as for paying for one"—Meriem snapped his fingers.

"She is young," said Kovudoo, "and good looking."

The Swedes laughed. "There are no good looking white women in the jungle," Kovudoo said. "Jensen. You should be ashamed to try to make fun of old friends."

Kovudoo sprang to his feet. "Come," he said. "I will show you." Malibu and Jensen rose to follow him, and as they did so their eyes met, and Malibu slowly dropped one of his lids in a sly wink. Together they followed Kovudoo toward his hut, in the dim interior they discerned the figure of a woman lying bound up in a sleeping mat.

Malibu took a single glance and turned away. "She must be a thousand years old, Kovudoo," he said as he left the hut.

"She is young!" cried the savage. "It is dark in here. You cannot see. Wait. I will have her brought out in the sunlight." And he commanded the two warriors who watched the girl to cut the bonds from her ankles and lead her forth for inspection.

Malibu and Jensen evinced no eagerness, though both were fairly bursting with it, not to see the girl, but to obtain possession of her. They cared not if she had the face of a marionette or the figure of a pot bellied Kovudoo himself. All that they wished to know was that she was the girl who had been stolen from the sheik several years before. They thought that they would recognize her for such if she were indeed the same. But even so, the testimony of the runner Kovudoo had sent to the sheik was such as to assure them that the girl was the one they had once before attempted to abduct.

As Meriem was brought forth from the darkness of the hut's interior the two men turned, with every appearance of disinterestedness, to glance at her. It was with difficulty that Malibu suppressed an ejaculation of astonishment. The girl's beauty fairly took his breath from him. But instantly he recovered his poise and turned to Kovudoo.

"Well?" he said to the old chief.

"Is she not both young and good looking?" asked Kovudoo.

"She is not old," replied Malibu. "But, even so, she will be a burden. We did not come from the north after wives. There are more than enough there for us."

Meriem stood looking straight at the white men. She expected nothing from them—they were to her as much enemies as the black men. She hated and feared them all. Malibu spoke to her in Arabic.

"Is She Not Both Young and Good Looking?" asked Kovudoo.

"We are friends," he said. "Would you like to have us take you away from here?"

Slowly and dimly, as though from a great distance, recollection of the once familiar tongue returned to her.

"I should like to go free," she said, "and go back to Korak."

"You would like to go with us?" persisted Malibu.

"No," said Meriem.

Malibu turned to Kovudoo. "She does not wish to go with us," he said. "You are men," returned the black. "Can you not take her by force?"

"It would only add to our troubles," replied the Swede. "No, Kovudoo, we do not wish her, though, if you wish to be rid of her, we will take her away because of our friendship for you."

Now, Kovudoo knew that he had made a sale. They wanted her. So he commenced to bargain, and in the end the person of Meriem passed from the possession of the black chieftain into that of the two Swedes in consideration of six yards of American, three empty brass cartridge shells and a shiny new jackknife from New Jersey.

All but Meriem were more than pleased with the bargain.

Kovudoo stipulated but a single condition, and that was that the Europeans were to leave his village and take the girl with them as early the next morning as they could get started. After the sale he did not hesitate to explain his reasons for this demand.

Meriem was again bound and placed under guard, but this time in the tent of the Swedes. Malibu talked to her, trying to persuade her to accompany them willingly. He told her that they would return her to her own village, but when he discovered that she would rather die than go back to the old sheik he assured her that they would not take her there—nor, as a matter of fact, had they any intention of so doing.

All that night Meriem lay listening for a signal from Korak. All about the jungle life moved through the darkness. To her sensitive ears came sounds that the others in the camp could not hear, sounds that she interpreted as we might interpret the speech of a friend, but not once came a single note that betokened the presence of Korak. But she knew that he would come. Nothing short of death itself could prevent her Korak from returning to her.

What delayed him, though? When morning came again and the night had brought no sneering Korak Meriem's faith and loyalty were still unshaken, though misgivings began to assail her as to the safety of her friend. It seemed unbelievable that serious mishap could have overtaken her wonderful Korak, who daily passed unscathed through all the terrors of the jungle. Yet morning came, the morning meal was eaten, the camp broken, and the respectable safari of the Swedes was again on the move northward with still no sign of the rescue by Korak the girl momentarily expected.

All that day they marched and the next and the next. Nor did Korak even so much as show himself to the patient little water moving, silent and stately, beside her hard captors.

It was on the fourth day that Meriem began definitely to give up hope. Something had happened to Korak. She knew it. He would never come now, and these men would take her away. Presently they would kill her. She would never see her Korak again.

On this day the Swedes rested, for they had marched rapidly and their men were tired. Malibu and Jensen had gone from camp to hunt, taking different directions.

They had been gone about an hour when the door of Meriem's tent was lifted and Malibu entered. His look portended no good to the girl.

Out in the jungle Jensen had brought down two blacks. His hunting had not carried him far afield, nor was he prone to permit it to do so. He was suspicious of Malibu. The very fact that his companion had refused to accompany him and elected instead to hunt alone in another direction would not, under ordinary circumstances, have seemed fraught with sinister suggestion, but Jensen knew Malibu well, and so, having secured meat, he turned immediately back toward camp while his boys brought in his kill.

He had covered about half the return journey when a scream came faintly to his ears from the direction of camp. He halted to listen. It was repeated twice. Then silence.

With a muttered curse Jensen broke into a rapid run. What a fool Malibu was, indeed, thus to chance jeopardizing a fortune!

Further away from camp than Jensen and upon the opposite side another heard Meriem's screams—a stranger who was not even aware of the proximity of white men other than himself, a hunter with a handful of sleek, black warriors.

He, too, listened intently for a moment. That the voice was that of a woman in distress he could not doubt, and so he also hastened at a run in the direction of the affrighted voice, but he was much farther away than Jensen, so that the latter reached the tent first.

What the Swede found there roused no pity within his calloused heart, only anger against his fellow scoundrel. Meriem was fighting off her attacker. Malibu was showering blows upon her.

Jensen, streaming foul curses upon his erstwhile friend, burst into the tent. Malibu, interrupted, dropped his victim and turned to meet Jensen's infuriated charge.

He whipped a revolver from his hip. Jensen, anticipating the lightning move of the other's hand, drew almost simultaneously, and both men fired at once.

Jensen was still moving toward Malibu at the time, but at the flash of the explosion he stopped. His revolver dropped from nerveless fingers. For a moment he staggered drunkenly. Deliberately Malibu put two more bullets into his friend's body at close range.

Even in the midst of the excitement and her terror Meriem found herself wondering at the tenacity of life which the hit man displayed. His eyes were closed, his head dropped forward upon his breast, his hands hung limply before him. Yet still he stood there upon his feet, though he reeled horribly.

It was not until the third bullet had found its mark within his body that he lunged forward upon his face. Then Malibu approached him and, with an oath, kicked him viciously. Then he turned once more to Meriem.

At the same instant the flaps of the tent opened silently and a tall white man stood in the aperture. Neither Meriem or Malibu saw the newcomer. The latter's back was toward him, while his body hid the stranger from Meriem's eye.

He crossed the tent quickly, stepping over Jensen's body. The first intimation Malibu had was a heavy hand upon his shoulder.

He wheeled, to face an utter stranger, a tall, black haired, gray eyed stranger, clad in khaki and pith helmet. Malibu reached for his gun again, but another hand had been quicker than his, and he saw the weapon tossed to the ground at the side of the tent—out of reach.

"What is the meaning of this?" The stranger addressed his question to Meriem in a tongue she did not understand. She shook her head and spoke in Arabic. Instantly the man changed his question to that language.

"These men are taking me away from Korak," panted the girl. "The one who has just killed, tried to stop him. They were both very bad men, but this one is the worse. If my Korak were here he would kill him. I suppose you are like them, so you will not kill him."

The stranger smiled. "He deserves killing," he said. "There is no doubt of that. Once I should have killed him, but now not. I will see, though, that he does not bother you any more."

He was holding Malibu in a grasp the giant Swede could not break, though he struggled to do so, and he was holding him as easily as Malibu might have held a little child, yet Malibu was a huge man, mightily thwarted. The Swede began to rage and curse. He struck at his captor, only to be twisted about and held at arm's length. Then he shouted to his boys to come and kill the stranger.

In response a dozen strange blacks entered the tent. They, too, were powerful, clean limbed men, not at all like the many crew that followed the Swedes.

"We have had enough foolishness," said the stranger to Malibu. "You deserve death, but I am not the law. I know now who you are. I have heard of you before. You and your friend bear a most unsavory reputation. We do not want you in our country. I shall let you go this time, but should you ever return I shall take the law into my own hands. Now, get out, and next time you see me remember who I am," and he spoke a name in the Swede's ear—a name that more effectively subdued the scoundrel than many beatings. Then he gave him a push that carried him bodily through the tent doorway, to sprawl upon the turf beyond.

"Now," he said, turning toward Meriem, "who has the key to this thing about your neck?"

The girl pointed to Jensen's body. "He carried it always," she said.

The stranger searched the clothing on the corpse until he came upon the key. A moment more Meriem was free.

"Will you let me go back to my Korak?" she asked.

"I will see that you are returned to your people," the stranger replied. "Who are they, and where is their village?"

He had been eyeing her strange, barbaric garb with wonder. From her speech she was evidently an Arab girl, but he had never before seen one thus clothed.

"Who are your people? Who is Korak?" he asked again.

"Korak! Why, Korak is an ape. I have no other people. Korak and I live in the jungle alone since Akut went to be king of the apes." She had always thus pronounced Akut's name, for so it had sounded to her when first she came with Korak and the ape.

A questioning expression entered the stranger's eyes. He looked at the girl closely.

"So Korak is an ape?" he said. "And what, pray, are you?"

"I am Meriem. I also am an ape," "Meriem" was the stranger's only oral comment upon this startling announcement. But what he thought might have been partially interpreted through the pitying light that entered his eyes. He approached the girl and started to lay his hand upon her forehead. She drew back with a savage little growl. A smile touched his lips.

"You need not fear me," he said. "I shall not harm you. I only wish to discover if you have fever—if you are entirely well. If you are we will set forth in search of Korak."

SHOW YOUR FAITH IN AMERICA

By THOMAS R. MARSHALL,
Vice President of the United States.

If we are standing in statecraft for the same things for which the Nazarene stood in religion, then we ought to be able to glean something from the discussion of his followers. Peter and Paul grew acrimonious over the relative merits of faith and works and the discussion ended with the somewhat caustic statement, "Show me your faith without your works, and I will show you my faith by my works."

MASSES SHOULD SUPPORT LOAN

By HARRY PRATT JUDSON,
President, University of Chicago.

I trust that this loan will meet a very wide subscription in small amounts. One of the fundamental elements in the stability of the financial condition of the French Republic is the fact that the national loans are taken up in small amounts by persons who are able in that way to put away their savings with a sense of entire security. Such a policy adopted here in the first place would make it possible for government loans to be placed rapidly and effectively. In the second place, it would be a distinct encouragement to thrift, providing a ready and safe investment for small savings. In the next place, it stabilizes the entire condition of the republic. Every investor in the national securities is thereby a financial partner in the national prosperity. I believe that few things, therefore, could be more effective for the benefit of the nation than the rapid placing of this second Liberty loan among the masses of the people in small amounts.

SCORE INJURED IN WRECK

Pennsylvania Passenger Sideswiped by Freight Near Johnstown.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 22.—Twenty passengers were injured, none seriously, when Pennsylvania railroad passenger train No. 18, east-bound, was sideswiped by a freight at Sang Hollow, west of Johnstown. A bulging car in the freight train on an adjoining track scraped the passenger coaches, breaking a number of windows. Most of the injured were hurt by flying glass.

ANTILLES MEN LAND

Survivors of Torpedoed U. S. Transport Reach France.

Submarine Attacked Ship at 6:45 O'clock in the Morning While Many Were in Berths.

A French Port, Oct. 22.—Survivors of the United States transport Antilles, which was sunk by a German submarine last week while being conveyed on her homeward trip by American warships, were landed here by auxiliary vessels and are being cared for by the American consulate. Some of the men have been lodged in local hotels and a few have left for Paris.

The torpedo struck the ship at 6:45 o'clock Wednesday morning. Many of those on board were killed in their berths and others while dressing. The explosion killed the engineers, oilers and mechanics and those of the crew who were in the bunks below.

All the survivors praise the captain of the Antilles and the members of the gun crew, who stuck to their posts while the officers searched with field-glasses for the submarine until the waves closed over the ship.

When the Antilles sank 40 or 50 men were at the stern. Most of them leaped 50 feet or more into the sea as the stern rose to a perpendicular position and some were drawn down by the suction of the sinking vessel.

The submarine was not sighted either before or after the explosion. The sea was running high at the time, making it difficult to save the crew and passengers. Some survivors, clinging to debris, were in the water an hour before they were sighted by lifeboats.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Families of the 70 soldiers and sailors who are believed to have lost their lives on the Antilles will share in the benefits of the compensation and automatic insurance provisions and automatic insurance law. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo authorized announcement that compensation under the law will be begun immediately.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The full names and emergency addresses of the three engine officers who were lost when the army transport Antilles went down were made public by the navy department. Admiral Sims' first dispatch mentioned only the surnames. They are:

E. A. Walker, third engineer officer; widow, Mrs. E. A. Walker, Hoken, N. J.

T. Boyle, junior engineer officer; mother, Mrs. E. Boyle, County Louth, Ireland.

J. O'Rourke, junior engineer officer; sister, E. O'Rourke, New York city.

The department is awaiting the complete casualty list and the survivors' story of the attack.

Difficult Language.

An intelligent Frenchman was studying the English language. "When I discovered that if I was tied I was fast, if I spent too freely I was fast, and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged. But when I came across the sentence, 'The first one won one guinea prize,' I was tempted to give up trying to learn English."

That Discouraged Him.

An exchange asks: "What has become of the old-fashioned doctor who used to write, 'Take a heaping dimeful of this powder three times a day?' We fancy, brother, he was knocked out by the old Irishman who, not having a dime handy, loaded up a nickel twice and nearly croaked.—Boston Transcript.

Aristocratic Neighborhood.

Odd Names in New York.

For odd names New York takes the prize. Almost every calling is represented among the names of New Yorkers, besides every title, physical, mental or moral quality and every beast and bird familiar to man. Here are some New York names: Outlaw, Hogg, Gosh, Dorn, Jolly, Nutty, Looney, Kidder, Toot, Hurt, Fake, Grunt, Darnall, Fun, Laffers, Krazy, Guyer, Bunk, Tough, Pain, Crook, Gee, Damn, Wit, Mutt, Batty, Stringer, Fight, Brawl.

Opposites.

We have two classes of unfortunates in this old vale of tears and laughter, those who can't get their minds on their work and those who can't get theirs off it.—Ohio State Journal.

COUNTRYMAN GIVES REASONS FOR LOAN

rocked the boat, fully settled? To raise, arm and equip millions of men and transport them and their supplies thousands of miles to the European battlefields requires almost fabulous sums of money. The government can only get the needed money by taking it from the people in the form of taxation or by borrowing it from them at a fair rate of interest. The latter is now being done by offering for sale its bonds in the dred million dollars. I am sure that the 18th inst. the German government closed its seventh war loan and its people, exclusive of the soldiers, had subscribed for bonds in the amount of over three billion, one hundred million dollars. I am sure that the people of America will do as well and that Dixon and vicinity will do their full part. I have observed our people for a good many years (especially so last summer during the Red Cross campaign, when a gift and not a loan was asked of them) and I know they are both liberal and patriotic.

Of course some persons will buy more and some less bonds, but each will have discharged his duty as well as the other if he has bought in proportion to his ability to do so. An investment of this kind is new to many people and it takes them a little time to get used to it. We should be patient with such. I am pleased to say that I have found no person who clearly is able and has refused positively to buy bonds.

It is a privilege to have an opportunity to aid our country by the purchase of these bonds and it is also our patriotic duty to do so.

No one should overlook the fact that if America wins, we all win; if America loses, we all lose.

STIFF JOINTS SORE MUSCLES

LIBER UP QUICKLY UNDER THE SOOTHING, PENETRATING, APPLICATION OF HAMLINS WIZARD OIL.

Ailments of this nature can be effectively treated with Hamlin's Wizard Oil. In cases of rheumatism and lame back it penetrates quickly, drives out the soreness, and limbers up stiff, aching joints and muscles. Wizard Oil is a good dependable preparation to keep in the medicine chest for first aid when the doctor may be far away. It is an absolutely reliable, antiseptic application for cuts, burns, bites and stings. Sprains and bruises heal readily under its soothing, penetrating qualities.

Get a bottle from your druggist for 25c and use the medicine. If not entirely satisfied take the bottle back to him and he will return your money.

If you are troubled with constipation or sick headache try Hamlin's Wizard Liver Whips. Just pleasant little pink pills at druggists for 25c. Guaranteed.

Making a House a Home.

In planning a home it is essential to building satisfaction that the prospective home owner decides whether he wants to dwell in his own or some other person's home; that he decide just the sort of home he wishes to erect and follow those plans, also that he build his house on honest lines that conform to the principles of good architecture.
